One possible version:

Dear Chris,

I'm Li Hua, a senior 3 student in our school. I feel greatly honored and excited to show my opinions on the approaching activity week with the theme of "Fly Your Dream".

Personally, a theme class meeting, I Have A Dream, may be a good choice, offering us students a chance to share our dreams freely. Additionally, each class can recommend a representative to join in a speech contest titled "Fly Your Dream", which will serve as an inspiration for us to dream big and fight for a better future.

I'm really expecting the coming of the significant month. Sincere gratitude for your consideration.

Yours,

Li Hua

I began to think I might drown out there. Just then a stranger appeared in front of me. With the last hope, I gathered all my strength to cry out "Help" but suddenly a huge wave hit me and drowned my cry. I choked on a big swallow of salty water and felt terrible. Fortunately, my angel was swiftly approaching me and then held me tightly with his strong arm. My basic knowledge reminded me to stay relaxed before I fell into a world of darkness.

A moment later, I regained my consciousness. I wanted to express my sincere gratitude to the man who saved my life. But he was gone. My relatives and friends were so concerned about my safety that they even didn't notice him leave. Feeling regretful, I decided to look for him through the Internet, but in vain. I made a post, adding that "Words are far from enough to convey my heartfelt thanks, my angel. Best wishes for you!” , expecting him to see my heart with an increasing number of likes and shares. Although I have not seen my hero ever since ,the gratitude to him will live in my heart forever.
